DEATH OF EX-GOVERNOR JOHN FREMONT HILL

A Distinct Loss to City, State and Nation.

Hon. John Fremont Hill, ex-Governor of Maine and chairman of the Republican National Committee, died at 7:30 A. M., Saturday, at Hotel Touraine, Boston. He left Augusta, last Monday afternoon, on his way from Maine to the national headquarters and was suddenly stricken with heart trouble. Tuesday, in his room at Hotel Touraine, which he rallied and it was stated, the next morning, that he had nearly escaped pneumonia. Later in the day it was learned that the trouble lay with the heart, rather than the lungs. Favorable reports were received, on Thursday, and as late as Friday it was believed that he would recover and encouraging replies were sent to inquiries from his anxious friends in his home city and other parts of Maine.

During his illness attempts were made by the city to hush the noise of traffic about the adjacent corner of the hotel where the apartment of the stricken man were. Marchers were stamped on the pavement on La Grange street and Tannock street on another side of the hotel was closed to traffic. This was the first time that a street was closed to traffic in Boston on account of a sick person since Governor Gould's illness.

Ex-Governor Hill passed a quiet night, Friday, but about dawn, Saturday, there was a sudden change and death came at 7:30 o'clock. His wife and son, Percy V. Hill, had been summoned. Tuesday, from his home in Maine and now with him when he passed away.

Gov. Hill was born in Eliot, Me., Oct. 23, 1835. He attended the public schools in Eliot and later studied at the Eliot and South Berwick Academies. He entered the Maine Medical School at Brunswick in 1874, being graduated therefrom with the degree of Doctor of Medicine in 1877. He supplemented his work in the Medical School with a post graduate course at Long Island Hospital, Brooklyn, New York, and in the latter part of 1877 began the practice of his profession at Bethel, Me. He remained there for a year and one then in practice in Augusta for a short time, but in 1879 gave up the physician's profession to

BANQUET GIVEN BASKETBALL QUINTET.

By The Alumni of Rumford High School.

On Thursday evening the Alumni of Rumford High School tendered a banquet to the basketball quintet of the Rumford High School to show their appreciation of the excellent work which the team has done this season.

The members of the team and of the Alumni Association met at the Institute building at about eight o'clock and enjoyed a pleasant time there for an hour talking over old times. At precisely 9:30 the party left for Haverley's cafe. The tables had been set in a hollow square and decorations of red and white, the high school colors, were festooned around the posts of the room making the general appearance very artistic. The basketball team together with their coach, Mr. Damon, the president of the association and the toastmaster, Mr. Fred Morrison, occupied seats at the head of the room. There were thirty-four present in all. After all had taken their places Mr. Carrier the president asked Mr. Smith, the principal of the High School to offer the blessing which he did. Following this each one took an active part in enjoying the excellent banquet which Mr. Haverley had set before them. The menu was as follows:

Tomato Bisque
Olives
Roast Chicken
Mashed Potatoes
Celery
Giblet Sauce
Marrow Squash
Hot Boile
Shrimp Salad
Vanilla Ice Cream
Assorted Cake
Coffee with Whipped Cream

After this had been partaken of Mr. Carrier arose and introduced Mr. Morrison as toastmaster of the evening. Mr. L. W. Blanchard of the class of '08 was to have acted in this capacity, but was called away by business matters and was unable to be present, but he sent a letter which was read by the president of the association at this time, expressing his sympathy with the team. Mr. Morrison then took the floor and a large part of the success of the evening was due to the excellent way in which he kept the fun going. He seemed to know just how to introduce each speaker, and also just what to get off on the team.

The first speaker of the evening was Mr. Philip Lancelotti, who spoke on "The History of Basketball." In his opinion of the game, Mr. Lancelotti said that he was a great deal to help each team. He said that he was a great deal to help each team. He said that he was a great deal to help each team.

STATEMENT OF THE HON. WM. T. HAINES

On the Liquor Question in Maine.

At a recent banquet, given by the Republicans of Portland under the auspices of the Monjoy Club, the Hon. Wm. T. Haines of Waterville, who is generally conceded to be the leading candidate for Governor on the Republican ticket, made the following statement, which will be very reassuring to the people of Oxford County. We take pleasure in publishing the same.

THE PROHIBITORY LAW.
"The question of control, regulation and prohibition of the liquor traffic is a live issue in every state in the Union, and, in my judgment, the ensuring contest for the control of this State depends largely upon this issue. Political parties and politicians have many times dodged this question, but today the public mind is so much interested in this subject that there is no chance to dodge or to straddle."

"For over 50 years we have had what we commonly call the prohibitory law, and this principle was engrafted into our constitution in 1866, so that there is no chance for the Legislature to change it until the constitution is changed. For many years the Democratic party through its platforms, press and public speakers has advocated the resubmission of this constitutional provision to the people, placing their reason for such resubmission at different times upon different theories. Many Republicans during the past 10 years came to believe that resubmission was expedient, whether they believed in the prohibitory principle or not, and the sentiment for resubmission grew to such an extent that it became apparent that the Democratic party was gaining ground very fast by advocating it."

"In 1898, I was for resubmission, as everybody knows, and I gave my reasons clearly and distinctly at that time—that I wanted the Republican party to attend to this matter while it was in power; and I believed that the prohibitory principle would be reaffirmed and the cause of prohibition and temperance in this State strengthened. I was much misunderstood, and thus exposed to my candidacy voted upon the opportunity to declare me a runaway. However, those who know my record, and know it now, know that I have always stood for the prohibitory principle, and I can say to you that I have no use for the present action of the Democratic party in this regard. I regret that the vote on resubmission had not a greater margin, but it had a margin, and the people will not be so easily misled as to how our public officers on the liquor question are to be regarded."

"The Democratic party is now making plans on the side of the liquor traffic, and the Republican party, which has been the champion of prohibition, is now making plans on the side of the liquor traffic, and the Republican party, which has been the champion of prohibition, is now making plans on the side of the liquor traffic."

"The Democratic party is now making plans on the side of the liquor traffic, and the Republican party, which has been the champion of prohibition, is now making plans on the side of the liquor traffic, and the Republican party, which has been the champion of prohibition, is now making plans on the side of the liquor traffic."

GOULD'S ACADEMY ENDOWMENT FUND.

Seldom has the Citizen been in position to make an announcement to the public that has carried with it more occasion for rejoicing than did the announcement last week concerning the movement that was on foot to obtain a permanent fund for Gould's Academy and the success that had crowned the effort.

We are pleased to report that progress is still being made and that the fund has been materially increased since our last issue.

Judge A. E. Herrick, than whom the school has not and never did have on its board of trustees a more true and loyal supporter, has added one hundred dollars.

Mr. A. C. Bartlett, whose dignified and stately bearing on our streets has possessed for him the admiration of many a Bethel citizen, pledges one hundred dollars each year for five years. Mr. Bartlett is identified as Chicago University's benefactor; he is also the promoter of various other philanthropic movements, and we are glad indeed that he is manifesting his interest in our Academy.

Mrs. Gehring believes, too, that the young folks, especially the students, will be encouraged to add their mites, and several have responded as will be seen by the list attached.

The spirit of giving, that our Academy may be placed on a bedrock foundation, is in the air and the Citizen earnestly invites all who are interested in the school and in the cause of education and who may see through its columns what is being done, to join in the support of this movement.

Extraordinary session's here.

By our notice any extraordinary session during these extraordinary days?

Have you increased your automobile? New law this year you know.

The Gould's Academy endowment fund is growing. Have you decided what your contribution will be?

Good roads and automobiles are pretty close friends. The latter we have and the spirit of the former is in the air.

During the last political campaign which was said about the back-breaking burdens of taxation that were being borne unecessarily by the people of Maine, and the democratic orators and newspapers assured the public that if the affairs of the State were entrusted to them the State tax would be reduced forthwith. The people well remember the slogan, "you're being robbed by this Republican crowd, your taxes are too high, give us the chance and we will cut them down." Indeed! They were given a chance and the State tax was increased one million ninety-one thousand dollars. This, of course was divided among the towns of the State. How about Bethel? Our State tax in 1910, under the wicked republican administration was $1,887.01. In 1911 under the present administration it was $3,212.40. In other words the relief that was so faithfully promised came in the way of an increased tax of $1,325.39 or an average of nearly $100 each on the voting population of Bethel.

Much has been said during the past few months about the wonderful things that have been done by the present administration concerning State finances. Every man woman and child is familiar with the boasting that has been made concerning the fact that something like one million dollars has been paid toward the State debt during the past year. Now, in the light of the following facts, is there anything extraordinarily wonderful about the matter? The State tax for 1911 and 1912 is an increase of more than one million dollars over the State tax of 1909, and 1910 and it might be fitting to challenge those who are boasting of their wonderful financial record to point to a single act of progressive legislation that would call for an expenditure of money. No permanent improvement has been made at our hospitals, our normal schools, our charitable institutions, or our State properties anywhere. The administration has assumed the attitude of the man who is exporting the cargoes covering the property which he is exporting to be foreclosed before another harvest. It has simply been a case of cutting the hay on the old farm without adding a dollar in the way of fertilizers, manure, cultivation or improvement of any kind. With this kind of a program and an additional tax of over one million dollars on the one who earn their bread from the sweat of their face, who wouldn't pay their bill?

The Maine legislature, in the two years which have elapsed since the meeting of the State government was extracted to it, has made a record of which it may be justly proud. It has done the things which it promised the people that it would do. It has done nothing for which it need apologize."

—Waterville Sentinel.

When! Doesn't that sound refreshing. "It has done the things that it promised the people that it would do." Think of it! One of the promises that was made from Port Kent to Kittery and from the New Hampshire line to the coast was that the prohibitory law would be faithfully and impartially enforced. It is a fact too well known to need mention or to admit contradiction that rum shops have sprung up like mushrooms from a hot bed, that they have not only been tolerated but sanctified and encouraged, and that the last year has been marked by the most open and disgusting sale of liquor in the Maine cities that has ever been known in the history of Maine. Another promise was that unjust burdens would be removed from the poor people of Maine by cutting down the State tax. This has been kept by increasing the State tax over one million dollars, which increase is a direct tax on the taxable property of Maine and hence must be borne by the tax payer over whom so many tears were shed during that memorable campaign. Considering the foregoing what a lot of nerve it must require to put up to an intelligent public the claim that we, the Maine Democracy, have done the things which we promised the people that we would do. And then, "we have done nothing for which we need apologize."—Language. Indeed!—If some of the incidents of the special election campaign, promoted and conducted by the administration doesn't call for an apology the word may as well be placed on the obelisk list. It can never return to practical use.

DEATH OF EX-GOVERNOR HILL.

In the death of Ex-Gov. Hill the Republican National Committee loses its chairman, the State of Maine one of its most loyal and honored sons, the City of Augusta one of its most respected and devoted citizens, and the thousands of people who have been so fortunate as to come within his circle of friendship a most sincere and loyal friend.

William H. Hill ever has a public man passed from the stage of action in the State of Maine when so many hearts have been touched by the passion, so many voices have uttered their heartfelt regrets, and so many commendations have expressed what their tongues could not utter. A man who has been in the public eye for more than a score of years, who has filled positions of responsibility and trust, who has been thorough and conscientious political campaigner, and yet has maintained the respect and admiration of political friends and foe and escaped the base charges so painfully applied to the participants in many campaigns. Some knew him but to estimate him, and those who knew him best admired him most.

IT LOOKS LIKE HAINES.

There is little doubt but that the Hon. Wm. T. Haines of Waterville will be the candidate for governor that will be named by the Republican party at the primaries in June.

In these days when the question of prohibition versus license in the State of Maine occupies such a prominent place in the hearts and minds of every citizen, it is indeed most fitting that we know positively where our candidates for our public offices stand.

In another column we publish a statement from Mr. Haines which sets forth in language of no uncertain sound his position, and those who know "Honest Bill Haines" best know him to be a man whose word is as good as his bond, and when he says that he believes in the prohibitory law in the State of Maine, and has no use for license or any phase of the rum business, there is no guess coming to us as to what he means.

The Citizen is firm in its conviction that a license in the State of Maine would prove the greatest curse that could possibly be forced upon the old State and its people. It has stood, as its readers know first, last and all of the time for prohibition and on honest, above board enforcement. With explicit confidence in the honesty, integrity, ability and fearlessness of the Hon. Wm. T. Haines, it gladly recognizes him as a man eminently qualified in every way to lead the prohibitory forces of Maine to a noble victory next September, and we heartily and earnestly invite all who have as positive convictions on the temperance question as we possess to join us in his support.

HAVE ALL VOTED WHO WISH?

If So The Chair Will Declare The Ballot Closed.

The Citizen offered its readers a chance to show their preference for the various presidential candidates. The vote is counted and today is closed, hands down, not by any phenomenal increase of the total number of votes received at any of the former meetings, but by a two and one-half to one majority of all the other starters.

The vote, as will be seen below was a very light one. This was due to various things, but largely to the fact that attendance has been tightly held in Oxford County for the past few days, and the campaign managers could not get to the state at times without resorting to the same ruse as a means of transportation, and the campaign fund would be almost empty.

It will be noted that not a Democratic vote was cast. The explanation is easy. This came to it in a clear case of corrupt parties for the election officers to declare the ballot closed on the 19th of March when their convention did not convene until the 19th and could not have done so until they could vote for. The second clause in these election regulations had strong emphasis on the fact that it was such a matter for them to be so late in coming before the extraordinary session when the chances were two to one that after that it advised but severely manipulated brewers' relations it would be useless to put up candidates. And we felt like breathing a sigh of relief.

The vote was as follows:

	Ballot	Total
Wm. T. Haines	1	11
John W. Haines	2	2
George W. Haines	3	3

Sandy evening March 17th the four churches of the village united in "A Neal Bow Prohibition Rally Day" service at the Deering Memorial church. The meeting was in charge of the W. C. T. U. The spacious auditorium was filled with a congregation who appreciated the excellent program of the evening. The service opened with an organ voluntary by Mrs. George I. Barnham, followed by the Procession of "Onward Christian Soldiers" sung by the vested girls' chorus choir as they proceeded down the aisles to the organ loft. Mrs. Eben Chapman, president of the W. C. T. U. who presided, then read Psalm 146 followed by prayer of Rev. T. N. Kewley. Miss Verne Howe then sang a sweet response with choruses. A brief sketch of Neal Bow's life work was read by Mrs. Nellie Farnam followed by "A Maine Song" by the choir; address was then made by Rev. E. A. Davis pastor of the Baptist church and Rev. Chester A. Miller of the Universalist church, by Rev. A. T. McWhorter of the Congregational church and Rev. T. N. Kewley pastor of Deering Memorial Methodist church. A resolution was adopted disapproving any legislative action favoring the reestablishment, the repeal or the weakening of our present prohibitory law. "More Love to These O' Christ" was sweetly sung by the choir as they slowly marched to the vestry. Rev. A. T. McWhorter pronounced the benediction. The addresses were inspiring and profitable and very pleasing was the singing of the chorus choir.

The family party at Mrs. Louise J. Briggs Sunday, consisted of Fred C. Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Briggs, Mary Briggs, Marjorie Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Morton, Ralph B. Penfold, Raymond W. Penfold and Miss Mabel.

Mrs. Agnes L. Morton entertained the Ladies' Literary Society Club, Monday evening.

The drama, "A Regiment of Two" was repeated at New Hall Friday evening to a good audience, and as at the preceding presentation on Thursday evening all parts were well portrayed.

DEATH OF CAPT. HAROLD W. SMALL.

Bethel people will be pained to hear of the untimely death on Tuesday, Mar. 12, of Captain Harold W. Small, of Virginia, youngest son of Hon. and Mrs. Russell Small of Portland. Captain Small graduated from Stannard Military Academy, Stannard, Me., in 1907, returning for a post graduate course the next session, and becoming a member of the faculty in 1909. He was one of the most popular members of the faculty and while a student received some of the highest honors the school awards. Owing to his life as a student in the Academy, and to his membership in a student fraternity, he was much closer to the cadets than any other member of the faculty, and his death is mourned by the entire corps. Capt. Small had been ill of pneumonia for several weeks and his death was expected after Sunday afternoon. He was not quite 24 years of age, having been born May 16, 1888. Hon. Ruel Small, Captain Small's father was with him during his illness, as was also Mrs. Louis Small, his sister-in-law. He leaves his wife, his parents and three brothers, Albert, Dana and Louis to mourn his loss.

There was a full military funeral at Trinity church, Thursday morning and burial was at Thoracore cemetery, Stannard.

ESSEX HIGH GRADE FERTILIZERS

A GREAT POTATO FERTILIZER.
"I have used Essex Fertilizer for the last four seasons and find it to be a great crop power. I never raised so large crops before as since I have used the Essex. This season I planted seven acres of potatoes on the same land that I raised potatoes last year. This season I raised eight hundred and thirty-five barrels of fine marketable potatoes on the seven acres with no other fertilizer than the Essex. My son also planted one and one-half acres of land in potatoes, used seventeen hundred pounds of Essex on the place, and harvested and sold five hundred and eighty-three bushels of market potatoes with no other fertilizer. We think this is a fair yield, as this is an off year."

Essex Fertilizers satisfy the users because they produce the desired results. They are composed of organic matter, the essential of plant life, and such chemicals as will balance the whole. The absorption by the plant begins at the time of sowing and lasts until the crop is harvested. For a permanent plant food in concentrated form use Essex Fertilizers. It is doubt as to what brand to use write us for information, and ask for our book of suggestions.

THIS BABIES' BEDTIME.

Now it is bedtime in the morning, in the afternoon or night, in their baby's cradle of red and blue, or green of simple white, in their play up to the playroom, in the yard or on the lawn, but they're sweetest when it's bed time, and they get their "nighties."

made up his mind to tell her about his dream, even with the disagreeable probability of having her ridicule him.

After what seemed a long interval, the door was pushed softly open and a rather frightened looking Mathilde came in and sat down on a chair near the bed. "John," she exclaimed, "the doctor who brought you home has just told me about your operation! I am so ashamed to think I wouldn't listen yesterday. Please believe me, won't you?"

"It's nothing, Mathilde. It was far less important than something I wanted to talk to you about, though I hardly know how to begin. I am almost sure of your disapproval."

Mrs. Merriam started forward as if to speak, then she leaned back with closed lips. The next moment she sprang up, and drawing the chair closer to the bed sat down, looking at him with wide, troubled eyes. "John," she said, "before you tell me anything, I want to say something to you. You know I told you I was to read a paper at the Self-Defense Club yesterday. Well, I did, and it was received with applause, making me feel very important and happy. After the regular meeting Mrs. Mills brought up a beautiful woman and presented her to me as Mrs. Markham, her cousin, from Falmouth. She was tall and gray-eyed, and apparently grumpy, but what impressed me most was her lovely mouth, so tender and kindly and humorous.

"Your paper was very interesting, Mrs. Merriam," she said to me, "but I can't agree with you on your so-called women's sphere. I saw that she had not taught the Mrs. in my name, and before I could correct her she went on about being to get with a club for me. I was curious, but I thought of tomorrow that my husband and home would be a higher sphere. Was not it you have a time of your own, Mrs. Merriam, with a big new department open now, and then she said what kind of a paper you could write."

"That was all I talked with her, John. It wasn't so much what she said, as the crafty way she said it, that started me to thinking. I thought of Mrs. Mayhew, our president, whose beautiful face life is so often quoted, of Mrs. Gray and her husband, who is the owner of Mrs. Atwood, who is such a good daughter, and Mrs. Minor, whose sons have grown to be such fine men. As then I thought of you, and I knew there was something wrong with me, John, for I had failed where these other women had succeeded."

John looked out and took her hand, looking at her slowly.

"John, dear, it swept over me with a flash and I saw—the life we have been living, with my selfish ambition to outstep you and our home. And I could see how I had driven you more and more into your business and your club, and it frightened me to think I had not even noticed the change. I wondered wildly if I could make you understand. Maybe if Mrs. Markham had been an old or unattractive woman who would not have impressed me so strongly, but I kept thinking of how her husband must adore her, and John Merriam had been brought home from the hospital where he had undergone an operation and had been put to bed without having seen any one but the doctor, who explained to him that Mrs. Merriam was dressing for dinner. The young woman looked surprised at this, but the remark did not appear to matter to her. When the doctor had left, John sent a message to his wife, requesting her immediate presence, and then he put on his dressing gown and went to her, and
